Presenter details

Research Officer / Investigator with Fire & Rescue NSW

Morgan has been with Fire & Rescue NSW for 26 years having joined in September 1989 with his career including experience in Hazmat, Rescue, Communications, and the last 5 years being attached to the Fire Investigation and Research Unit (FIRU) as Research Officer and Investigator. Morgan is a 2012 Churchill Fellow after having spent almost 2 months travelling to other countries such as Sweden, China, Canada and the USA looking at how Fire Research influences and compliments Fire Investigation. Morgan was instrumental in orchestrating the research burns into the Quakers Hill Nursing Home Fire and is currently project managing the planning and construction of FIRU's new research facilities at Londonderry NSW. Morgan is a member of the International Association of Arson Investigators, National Association of Fire Investigators and is a serving committee member of the NSW Association of Fire Investigators.
