Australian and New Zealand
FORENSIC SCIENCE SOCIETY

JOIN US

The ANZFSS NSW branch invites you to join us for our first meeting of 2020, celebrating our much beloved life member Mr. Eric Murray. This short presentation will be followed by a farewell for our fabulous president, Dr. Rebecca Johnson, and a casual networking event.

Eric Murray is a highly respected stalwart of the forensic science community, and generous benefactor of the ANZFSS Travel Scholarships.

The ANZFSS, in its first iteration, was formed in 1971 with the aim of bringing together scientists, police, criminalists, pathologists, and members of the legal profession. Two years later, in 1973, founding members Henry Delaforce and Allan Hodda asked Mr Murray to join to provide a new perspective; with input as a nursing professional with experience in trauma, mental health, training and scene attendance. Eric Murray is a Life Member of ANZFSS and has contributed greatly to the Society over 45+ years.

Mr Murray will present on his career to date, his training and education, as well as on his many achievements and lessons learned in the field from a variety of specialised roles in WHS, training, workplace incidents, nursing, and forensic accident/scene reconstruction.

Recipient of the Eric Murray Scholarship, Alicia Khuu will also present on her research, career path and how mentoring and other support has helped guide her forensic science career.
